Storm ravages northern states

By United Press International
Gaining new strength, tropical storm Agnes dumped up to 10 inches of rain on the East Coast, touching off flash floods from New York to North Carolina that have driven hundreds from their homes and taken the lives of at least six persons. Four others are missing.

Four persons are missing and presumed drowned in western New York and the National Weather Service has issued a major flood warning for portions of the upstate area, predicting flood crests on some streams early today.

Two of the four missing persons were lost when their small boat overturned as they were attempting to flee from their home in Almond, N.Y. Two other persons were carried away when their auto was swept from a bridge near Bath by raging waters.

Waters of the Genesee River at Wellsville, N.Y. already have risen six feet above flood level. Serious flooding also was reported in other areas of Allegheny County and in Hornell.

Four counties in the metropolitan New York area were officially declared disaster areas after being drenched by torrential rains for almost one week. The declaration affords all authorized persons whose businesses or homes were damaged in Westchester, Rockland, Putnam and Bronx counties the opportunity to apply for federal funds to implement repairs.

Flash flood warnings are in effect for New Jersey, most parts of Pennsylvania, New York and Virginia.

Blinding rain from the tropical storm in Roanoke, Va., caused rivers and streams there to overrun their banks and has drowned five motorists. A man, his wife and two children were killed when they ignored a roadblock and drove into flood waters which swept them away. A fifth died when his car fell from a washed out bridge into a swollen creek.

It was the worst recorded flooding in Virginia since 1969 when Hurricane Camille touched off serious flooding that claimed the lives of 150 Virginians.

Between four and eight inches of rain fell in Virginia Tuesday and Wednesday over a 24-hour period and more is expected.

More than 400 persons have been evacuated from their homes in Covington and the Roanoke River in Roanoke has risen to almost 18 and one-half feet, the highest recorded there in 32 years.

So far, Agnes has killed seven persons in Cuba, nine in Florida and one in North Carolina in addition to the recent deaths caused as she moves through the New England States.

Only minor flooding expected

CD unit watching streams

STROUDSBURG — The Monroe County Civil Defense headquarters, swinging into action Wednesday night after receiving word of a flash flood warning for northeastern Pennsylvania monitored the action of area streams and rivers, on the alert for possible flooding.

With heavy rain from tropical storm Agnes forecasted to sweep through the Poconos throughout the night, the CD unit monitored radios to receive reports from local law enforcement officials who continuously checked the level of streams and creeks.

Fire departments in the county also watched water levels in areas where police patrols could not check regularly. Late Wednesday night the water level of the Brodhead Creek reportedly dropped about two inches after the rain stopped for a while.

Delaware River Rivermaster Robert Fish, in Milford, said the Delaware River was running about two feet higher than normal for this time of year, but is still classified as being only in its medium stage. He felt certain the river would not approach flood stage even though heavy rains were predicted for the area overnight.

"If we get two more inches by morning," said Fish, "some small tributaries may go out of their banks. I expect the river would come up some but not reach the flood stage."

He noted the New England States and portions of midwestern Pennsylvania and upstate New York were experiencing heavy rainfalls and flooding but said "it (the storm) appears to be going around us."

Roams through office building

Marauding gunman kills six men

CHERRY HILL, N. J. (UPI)

A gunman marauding through a small suburban office building Wednesday shot 12 men, killing six of them as other workers fled in terror, then shot himself in the head as police closed in.

The gunman, identified as Edwin Grace, 32, a Pinkerton guard from Brooklyn, N. Y., was alive but in critical condition after officers carried him from the office building in this affluent Camden suburb of 65,000.

Police said Grace entered the building without warning about 2:30 p.m. and, roaming from office to office, shot down the victims at their desks or in hallways, choosing only men.

"I looked out the door and I saw him standing in the hall reloading his gun," said James Slimmer, who was wounded but survived. "All I saw was the gun and his eyes. I slammed the door and held it shut."

"He shot me through the door. I was holding my thumb over the wound with one hand and doing my damndest to keep the door closed with the other. He shot a few more times and then he left."

Three of the wounded were in critical condition. Grace, also in critical condition, underwent emergency surgery Wednesday night.

The gunman, who was dressed in a blue court clerk's uniform and who arrived in a small foreign car with a Pinkerton badge on the front seat, calmly reloaded as he went through the building.

"The door opened up and he came in," said Dianne Heckmann, who was in the middle of her first day on the job at a small computer firm. "He looked at me. He was a big man with a hat pulled down over his head."

"I thought he was going to shoot me but he turned around and went after the man in the back of the office. He shot him in the chest. I ran out the door."

Other terrified workers jumped out windows, climbed down ladders or locked themselves in offices. The gunman ignored the women, shooting only at the men.

James Ashman, who escaped via a window, said, "We were just talking to one another and the guy walked in and shot the owner, Bernie Robinson, right in the head."

"After shooting two persons, Bob and me were left and he shot at Bob three times and hit Bob once or twice. He shot at me and hit the chair in front of me."

The dead were identified as Robert Bartone, 22, of Delanco, N. J.; Joseph A. DePalma, 44, of Cherry Hill; Charles Merkel, 37, also of Cherry Hill; Theodore G. Hall, 38, of Willingsboro, N. J.; Stephen B. Robinson, 42, of Cinnaminson, N. J.; and Joseph Boyd, 48, of Morristown, N. J.

House slashes $150 million from Gov. Shapp's budget

HARRISBURG (UPI) — The state House Wednesday chopped $150 million out of the budget proposed by Gov. Milton J. Shapp for fiscal 1972-73.

The members approved 152-47 an amendment which included 82 specific budget cuts. No final vote was taken on the spending plan.

The cuts approved Wednesday left the budget proposal at $3.51 billion — a $341 million increase over the current year.

The amendment was passed with solid Republican support plus 52 Democrats, most of them from rural areas.

The major reduction came in Shapp's request for $73 million for the major cities.

While the administration's budget totally deleted the one-million-dollar matching fund allocation for tourism that the industry has received for the past three years, these monies were reinstated by a 169 to 25 House vote.

"The thing that impresses us is that, at a time when the House was cutting almost everything possible out of the budget, this was reinstated and it was bi-partisan," stated Robert Uggucioni, executive director of the Pocono Mountains Vacation Bureau.

He noted the matching fund allocations for tourism that began over a decade ago now amounts to nearly $70,000 annually to assist the local tourist industry to promote the poconos.

Majority Leader K. Leroy Ivis, D-Allegheny, called the budget cuts "cruel, heartless, and inhumane."

"I agree there are areas which should be cut," he said, "But in the manner being offered, we are being told to take the good with the bad. We are being told to take the whole thing."

Ivis said the amendment meant that necessary programs for the mentally retarded and emotionally disturbed would be dropped. He said six state institutions, Dixmont, Somerset, Retreat, Danville, Penhurst, and Torrance would be closed.

"We argued just two weeks ago that there is a right to educate the 4,000 children in mental hospitals and institutions. There won't be any money to educate these children if they cut the $16 million from their appropriation," Ivis said.

But Minority Leader Kenneth B. Lee, R-Sullivan, said Ivis was exaggerating.

"How can you call an amendment inhumane which still leaves the governor with $610 million in new money to place where he wants?" he asked. "The fact is there will be a $30 million increase just in mental health."

Rep. Kent Shelhamer, D-Columbia, sponsor of the amendment, said the spending reductions were designed to "tailor the government to fit the income of the people who are paying for it."

The amendment held each department to no more than a 10 per cent increase over the current spending level. All new programs were eliminated.

Shelhamer explained that he and the other rural Democrats would be willing to consider the new programs if they were presented later as separate bills.

McGovern urges party unity

WASHINGTON — McGovern called for unity; Kennedy rejected a spot on the Democratic ticket. Assured of about 1,300 delegate votes at the Democratic convention in Miami Beach, McGovern called on all Democrats to stop "engaging in divisive actions" and to unite to defeat Nixon in November. Despite McGovern's runaway victory in the New York Primary Tuesday, Humphrey predicted that McGovern would fail to win on the first ballot and said he doubted the South Dakota senator would win the nomination at all. In Washington, Kennedy noted speculation he might accept a draft and said: "There aren't any circumstances under which I would accept a nomination for any national office this year." (Details on page 2.)

Revenue sharing vote set

WASHINGTON — Revenue sharing cleared a House hurdle; passage today is expected. On a 223-185 vote the House barred any floor amendments to the bill, which has been backed by the Nixon administration. Although the vote was on a procedural issue, both supporters and opponents of the $30 billion, five-year appropriation said the battle was over as far as the House was concerned. (Details on page 2.)

Charge against Bremer changed

UPPER MERIDEN — The state of Maryland Wednesday dropped the charge against Arthur Herman Bremer that carried a potential death penalty. But he could be sent to jail for up to 123 years, however, on the remaining state charges growing out of the attempt on Gov. George C. Wallace's life. Wallace meanwhile was reported in very satisfactory condition as he recovered from Sunday's operation for the removal of a bullet from near his spine.

Price Commission decides to control farm products

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Price Commission has decided to recommend that price controls be extended to cover farm products, a commission spokesman indicated Wednesday.

The decision will be placed on the table at a meeting today of the Cost of Living Council, which has the power to order freeze controls to be imposed on now-exempt raw agricultural products.

The 7-member commission spent most of an all-day meeting wrestling with the politically explosive food-price issue. After discarding a number of options, including a freeze on wholesale and retail food prices, a spokesman told reporters: "The commission feels the problem exists because of the lack of control over raw agricultural products."

"The Cost of Living Council will have before it the thoughts of the Price Commission," the spokesman said.

"If the Cost of Living Council decides to lift the exemption on raw agricultural products, the Price Commission would not be against it," the spokesman said.

The semi-independent status of the commission apparently accounted for the reluctance of the commission to make an official statement prior to sending their findings to the council.

Under the Economic Stabilization Act, the commission could freeze prices at the wholesale and retail level but only the council, which consists entirely of administration officials, could take such an action.

The spokesman hinted that the commission would call a special meeting next week to act on the expected decision by the council.

Cost of living rises despite food price cut

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The cost of living rose by 0.3 per cent in May despite the first drop in supermarket prices in seven months, and the administration freely warned Wednesday that decline might already be erased by a new surge in food costs.

As President Nixon met unexpectedly with his top economic advisers to review the situation, the Price Commission studied the possibility of extending price controls to raw agricultural products, which rose again last month while all other foods declined.

"We're very concerned," said Dr. Marina Whitman of the President's Council of Economic Advisors, speaking of the supply-demand squeeze that forced sharp increases in wholesale food prices last month. Those boosts were expected to hit the retail level this month.

The index stood in May at 124.7.

N.J. environment chief opposes DRBC sewerage plan

By KNIGHT KILINGER
Ottaway News Service
Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — New Jersey's highest environmental official Wednesday issued a sharp criticism of the regional sewer system approved by the Delaware River Basin Commission (DRBC) to prevent pollution of the proposed Tocks Island Reservoir.

The Cahill Administration, one of four state governments in the DRBC, had not previously registered official opposition to the system when it was being considered.

Saying that New Jersey favors smaller systems for the northwest part of the state, environmental protection commissioner Richard J. Sullivan said the "alternative five" tri-state regional plan should not be built.

Sullivan made his comments during a briefing of the New Jersey congressional delegation on Gov. William T.

Cahill's doubts about the desirability of the Tocks project.

Sullivan acknowledged that the reservoir would provide a needed water supply, an alternative to which New Jersey has not yet found. He estimated, however, that the state would not need its allocation of the stored Tocks water until 1990, about 10 years after the dam is scheduled to be completed.

Sullivan said the governor's primary reservation about the project, which he expressed at the DRBC meeting in Washington May 10, is that the vast crowds expected to visit the reservoir and national park would require very costly state and municipal services.

Sullivan admitted, however, that there is going to be considerable residential and commercial development in northwestern New Jersey, whether Tocks is built or not.

Sullivan was asked if the Cahill Administration opposes the completion of the Delaware Water Gap National Recreation Area, the 59,000-acre park to be developed around the reservoir. After all, asked an aide to Rep. Joseph McDade (R-Pa.), isn't it the park rather than the dam and reservoir that will bring the influx of tourists to northwestern New Jersey?

Sullivan answered that the water sports made possible by the dam and reservoir would be the real attraction. He said the Interior Department estimates that the park would be visited by about four million people per year if the dam is not included, and about 10 million people if it is built. "We're not opposed to the recreation area," Sullivan concluded.

Benjamin Palumbo, administrative assistant to Sen. Harrison A. Williams Jr. (D-N.J.), criticized the Cahill reservations as unfounded. Palumbo called for "some firm alternatives before the governor slams the door on the project."

The aide said the Cahill Administration's estimate of the cost of new roads and improvements in the New Jersey Tocks area—put at about $683 million—is too high, especially since the proposed "foothills freeway" might be included in the interstate system.

Rep. Edward J. Patten (D-Perth Amboy) said that major road improvements in the northwest, on such routes as 206, 23 and 15, are long overdue, and said "to relate that to the Tocks Island Project is ridiculous."

Sullivan acknowledged that considerable road construction will be necessary in that area even if the dam isn't built, and said he has asked the state Department of Transportation for new cost estimates.

House expected to pass Nixon's revenue sharing

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon won tentative House approval Wednesday for his plan to share $30 billion in federal revenues with cities and states over the next five years.

The measure, modified by the House Ways and Means Committee, won a crucial procedural test on a 223-185 roll call vote that made final House passage a certainty, probably today.

Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., the committee chairman and manager of the bill, said the measure was urgently needed "to save a lot of these cities that are tottering on the brink of fiscal bankruptcy." But Rep. George Mahon, D-Tex., chairman of the House Appropriations Committee and a leading opponent, said "the federal government is already doing more than it can afford to do."

Speaker Carl Albert and House Democratic Leader Hale Boggs worked hand in hand with GOP House Leader Gerald R. Ford and White House aides to protect the big bill that Nixon listed as one of his top legislative priorities this year.

The 38-vote margin clearing the bill for House consideration under a procedure that bars amendments came as a surprise. Even proponents of the measure had predicted a closer outcome.

The aid would be retroactive to Jan. 1, 1972, and would give states $1.8 billion this year.

Under the bill, the 38,700 cities, counties, townships and villages in the nation would also divide $3.5 billion a year. But they could only spend it on police and fire protection, public transportation and environmental projects, including sewage and trash disposal and treatment.

Half of the state money would be allocated on the total revenue collecting efforts by a state and its localities and the other $900 million on how much the state alone collects from an income tax. The formula would reward high tax states.

The cities' share would be funneled through the state. The amount for the cities would be decided under a formula giving equal weight to population, the number of units of local government with 50,000 or more population, and the state's per capita income compared to the national figure.

Howard Johnson dies at 75

NEW YORK (UPI)—Howard Dearing Johnson, who turned 28 flavors of ice cream and the American public's budding love affair with the automobile into a string of roadside institutions, is dead at the age of 75.

Johnson, founder of the Howard Johnson Co. which dots the country with familiar orange, blue and white modified colonial restaurants, died Tuesday night at his Manhattan home.

In 1924 the then 27-year-old Johnson took over his father's cigar and variety store in Wollaston, Mass., and soon turned his attention to ice cream—the key to his business empire.

He developed 28 flavors—but once remarked, "I've spent my life developing scores of flavors and yet most people still say, 'I'll take vanilla.'"

Johnson himself contended ice cream was not fattening. He ate at least a cone a day and kept 10 flavors in the freezer of his penthouse.

He soon began distributing the ice cream to restaurants. After setbacks during the depression, business prospered, so much that he began operating and franchising his own restaurants. The chain today includes 438 motels and 871 restaurants.

The first Howard Johnson's was built in Washington, D.C., in the 1930s. Now the orange-roofed restaurants can be seen all over the country. The firm entered the motor lodge business in 1954.

When he decided to sell franchises, Johnson controlled the stores' design and operation. He stressed uniform, quality food, courteous service, reasonable prices and clean restrooms.

Johnson retired in 1959 and the firm, which became publicly owned in 1961, is now headed by his son, Howard B. Johnson, 39.

The business today has an annual volume close to $200 million.

S. Viets drive into enemy line

SAIGON, (UPI)—South Vietnamese marines pushed up "the Street without Joy" through fierce North Vietnamese tank and infantry fire Wednesday in a drive to recapture the only province lost to the Communists.

Field reports said the task force of six marine battalions moved slowly, virtually inch by inch, on the fourth day of a thrust into Quang Tri Province, which was captured by North Vietnamese troops May 1.

The marines reported killing at least 131 Communists Wednesday, most of them in fighting along the red-bordered dirt road christened "La Rue Sans Joy" (The Street Without Joy) by French soldiers who suffered massive losses trying to defend it during the French Indochina War two decades ago.

A total of 601 Communists have been reported slain during the drive, backed by massive U.S. air and naval support.

The South Vietnamese command in Saigon said seven marines were killed Wednesday and 29 were wounded, raising government losses in the campaign to 49 killed and 149 wounded.

UPI reporter Chad Huntley, based on the northern front, said the advancing marines captured two North Vietnamese amphibious tanks intact Wednesday and destroyed a third.

High-ranking officers captured

Israel attacks Lebanon

By United Press International
Israeli air and ground forces struck into Lebanon on two fronts Wednesday, capturing five high-ranking Syrian officers and causing heavy casualties and damages in raids which obviously caught Lebanese defense units by surprise despite fears of reprisals for the Lod airport massacre.

A Lebanese military communiqué said one Lebanese officer and three gendarmes also were captured while nine persons were killed and 18 wounded in the "flagrant" attacks. But Foreign Minister Khalil Abou Hamad, announcing that Lebanon sent an urgent complaint to the U.N. Security Council in New York, said a "large number of civilians were killed and wounded."

A senior military official in Tel Aviv said the five Syrians, including a brigadier general, were captured about 100 yards from the border by an Israeli armored patrol. He said the "prize catch" came as a complete surprise.

UPI correspondent Thomas Cheatham reported from Tel Aviv that sources described it as one of Israel's greatest intelligence windfalls since the 1967 Middle East War.

The ground raid near the village of Ramieh in the southern border area was part of the first Israeli air and ground attacks across the front in four months.

It came even as Egyptian, Syrian and Libyan leaders met in Egypt's Mediterranean resort of Marsa Mitrhah to review the Middle East crisis. The three Arab nations are joined in the Federation of Arab Republics, which embraces about 45 million persons—or about half of the Arab world's population.

There was no immediate comment on the Israeli raid

Senators urge primary reforms

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Two Republican senators looked back on the presidential primaries Wednesday and concluded the American voter is still where he was before they began—confused and discontented.

Both of them, George D. Aiken of Vermont and Robert W. Packwood of Oregon, urged some uniform alternative to the present system of state primaries with their wide variety of ground-rules and often inconclusive results.

"Frankly," said Aiken, "it seems to me that we are still at the point where we started on March 7 when the New Hampshire voters started this new season of political confusion, bewilderment, unsubstantiated charges and downgrading of candidates."

"After 23 primaries, numerous state conventions, each with its own set of rules and customs, millions of voters are now convinced that none of the candidates are qualified for the job."

Packwood concluded: "State primaries, rather than clarifying the issues, obscure them, and disgust the voters."

Both men appeared before the Senate subcommittee on Constitutional Amendments, which is studying several proposals for improvements in the way Americans select presidential candidates. Aiken proposed a national nominating primary, a plan backed by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield. Packwood suggested five regional primaries.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., the subcommittee chairman, also criticized the current primary system.

Soviets seek pact with Asia

MOSCOW (UPI)—With the way nearly clear for a European Security conference, the Soviet Union turned its attention eastward Wednesday and renewed its call for a collective security pact in Asia.

An article by Viktor Mayevsky, a leading commentator for Pravda, the Communist Party newspaper, pointed out China had previously agreed in principle to such a pact.

The major remaining obstacle was continuing American "aggression" in Vietnam.

"The creation of the security system which would specifically confirm inviolability of the frontiers and non-use of force is clearly not in the interests of certain circles in some countries," he said.

Mayevsky said Soviet interest were "linked geographically, economically and politically not only with Europe but also with Asia."

Such a pact could stem either from bilateral or regional treaties, Mayevsky said, citing Soviet treaties with India, Egypt and Iraq as models.

He scoffed at possible suggestions the pact would allow the Soviet Union "to fill in the vacuum (caused by) the withdrawal of American, British and other imperialist forces from Asia."

HHH refuses to endorse McGovern, woos delegates

By United Press International
Now within 200 votes of a first-ballot nomination at Miami Beach, Sen. George S. McGovern said Wednesday he would welcome an endorsement from Hubert H. Humphrey to put him over the top, but Humphrey refused.

"I'm staying in as a candidate. I will continue to seek to get delegates," Humphrey told a news conference in Atlanta after McGovern laid claim to at least 251 more delegates in Tuesday's New York primary.

McGovern's New York triumph put his total delegate strength at 1,328.15 votes, with 1,509 needed for the Democratic presidential nomination. He said Wednesday he didn't have the convention locked up, but gave himself a 60-40 chance of winning on the first ballot.

At his news conference, McGovern expressed regrets over having been "hurt personally, although not politically, by some of the harsh words that have been spoken" by his old friend Humphrey, a fellow senator from Minnesota and a former vice president.

The South Dakotan said he would welcome a Humphrey endorsement before the Democratic convention. "He could put us over right now."

But Humphrey said he doubted McGovern could win on the first, would lose strength on a second ballot and then fall, leaving the convention wide open. And he discounted the psychological effect of the New York results on uncommitted delegates.

"There are some people in this country that are very worried about the positions Sen. McGovern is taking," Humphrey said, referring to his minimum income and defense cut proposals. Those people will work hard to keep delegates from swinging to McGovern, he added.

Humphrey said he would support McGovern if he wins the nomination, but indicated he would keep fighting until the last.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., meanwhile issued one of his strongest denials to date that he would consider accepting either the Democratic presidential or vice presidential nomination.

A report that New York City Councilman Matthew Troy, a longtime Kennedy family ally and an early McGovern supporter, would support a campaign for a Kennedy vice presidential nomination prompted the senator's denial.

Salary hikes outrageous

Some members of the Pennsylvania House of Representatives told a reporter a couple of days ago that they felt they are worth $25,000 a year. No doubt.

We dare say there are any number of people who feel they are worth that much, although most of them are honest enough about it to admit they merely would like to be making that much.

That's the problem in an inflation atmosphere. We talk and hear so much about figures in the millions and billions that we don't pay too much attention to miniscule figures like $25,000 a year.

The trouble with those miniscule figures is that, if you multiply them often enough, they grow to amazing and alarming proportions. Take that suggested $25,000, for example, and multiply it by the number of legislators serving this commonwealth (253), and you come up with an annual payroll of $10,325,000!

Well, actually the pay raises suggested only amount to $19,200 a year — or an annual payroll of $4,857,600. Of course, the governor's commission that came up with those suggestions, having studied the pay problem for a year, also recommended the legislators' unaudited expense account be cut from $8,400 to $6,000, so we save some money there.

There are other raises as well, for just about everyone who serves the commonwealth in some capacity or other — on the higher levels, of course. The Capitol janitors presumably would earn the same salary they do now.

Naturally. They don't think they're worth $25,000 a year.

The theory behind raising the pay of public servants (how we wish bureaucrats would remember that's what they are!) is that higher pay attracts a higher calibre of man. Unfortunately, that theory has been disproven many times over. A scoundrel is just as desirous of a pile of money as an intelligent, experienced administrator. Maybe more so.

The point is, if our legislators are truly interested in cutting the cost of government (they must be; look at how they screamed at Gov. Shapp's budget and swore it could be cut), then you would think they'd be willing to start by foregoing pay raises for themselves.

Well, that's a futile hope. Cutting a budget by chopping programs aimed at making things better for the average Pennsylvanian is easy (legislators seldom have to confront those average people), but turning down a pay raise that fattens their own purse is something else. History has shown us it's darn near impossible!

Cost of progress

There are many prices to be paid for progress, not the least of which is having to discard some of our cherished institutions — sometimes in the physical sense.

Progress in this instance is the new list of standards for Pennsylvania nursing homes and the discard is the old wing of Monroe County's Pleasant Valley Manor.

While satisfactory for years in its intended purpose — caring for the elderly and infirm — that section of the county home has outlived its time. And the basic modernization, not to include the face-lifting, needed to bring the home into conformity with new standards is prohibitive in cost.

So it will be closed. Up to now, it has housed some 20 residents. Beds will have to be leased from other nursing homes, some private, to care for those residents. And the capacity of the manor is cut by 20, with a waiting list far in excess of that number to get into the manor.

Before too long, the county is going to be faced with expanding Pleasant Valley Manor. Another cost of progress. But better that cost than the sort of tragedy that took 15 lives in the Honesdale nursing home fire of nine months ago. That is a cost we cannot bear.

Nuclear pact winners

WASHINGTON — There is no need to be fearful or apologetic or defensive about the U.S.-U.S.S.R. nuclear arms agreement.

There are some in Washington who think the United States gave too much. There are some in Moscow who think Russia gave too much.

Both are wrong. Neither won over the other, and both sides are winners because neither comes off advantaged over the other.

For the first time since the terrible blast at Hiroshima, we are beginning to control the nuclear arms race. It is one of the wisest and most worthy acts of diplomacy mankind has produced.

It points the U.S.A., the U.S.S.R. and the world in the direction of safety and sanity.

Risks reducing

Without it the goal of radically reducing the risks and costs of nuclear weapons competition could never be attained.

With it the goal is attainable because the first giant stride has been taken.

It isn't the end by any means. The present agreements could fall apart — if either side lets them. Subsequent crucial negotiations, which could lead to a far greater good, could falter and fail — if we let them.

The beginning agreements are moderately valuable in themselves. They will be immeasurably valuable if they lead to where they are intended to lead — a total freeze and then a radical cutback in wasteful, perilous, competitive production of more and more powerful nuclear arms by which process both sides become more insecure.

The President, the Joint Chiefs of Staff — individually and collectively — the secretary of defense and the hard-headed ambassador, Gerard Smith, who put 30 months into negotiating the terms, certify that the U.S.

Soviet nuclear agreements are in the interests of the nation. They certify they neither impair the security of the United States nor upset the strategic balance between the two superpowers.

Critics may honestly argue that in some areas of nuclear weapons the Soviet Union has presently won an advantage in numbers. But if I had to choose between the judgment of the political generals and the judgment of the Pentagon generals, I would have confidence that the Joint Chiefs of Staff would not put their support behind any arrangement which would jeopardize the safety of the nation.

Russia ahead

Russia is ahead in submarines. We're ahead in bombers. Russia has more megatonnage; we have more warheads. Our military experts say the balance is prudent and that we have a "sufficiency" for the five year duration of the agreement.

The heart of the matter is that the agreement limits the Soviet Union where it already has a numerical advantage and where we have no ongoing building programs.

This while the agreement may not be ideal from our standpoint, the United States is definitely better off with the freeze than without it and the Soviets have accepted limits in nuclear weapons where they were already ahead and getting further ahead.

While the agreement may not be ideal the United States.

We can now see that the United States can negotiate successfully only if we are not engaging in unilateral disarmament. Efforts to enlarge the scope of the nuclear freeze will begin before the end of the year and Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird is rightly warning that American bomber and submarine programs need to go forward so that we can continue to negotiate from strength.

Industrial illiteracy

At a time when so many bad ideas seem to pass unresisted into circulation, it is a pleasure to report on the appearance of an especially good and interesting one.

I have just returned from a three-day conference of educators and philosophers in Chicago, at which, amongst the various speakers, I was most favorably impressed by the presentation of Professor Donald Lux.

Weird and perilous

He maintained that educated people today are what he called "industrially illiterate." The curriculum we study, from the earliest grades through college, instructs us in math, in science, in the humanities and in the social sciences. But we know next to nothing about the houses, chairs, vehicles, processes and so on that constitute the man-made environment we actually exist in for the most part. It seemed weird to Lux that this technological environment did not form one of the components of the normal curriculum — and not only weird but perilous.

A hundred years ago, he pointed out, a growing boy would come by his knowledge of current technology more or less naturally. Most people lived in small towns or in a rural setting. The boy on his way to school would pass the forge and the mill and the livery stable. The man-made components of his environment would be relatively intelligible to him, and in due course he would make the decisions that would determine his own relationship to them.

But the technological environment, so to speak, has crept up on us, and as it has done so it has at the same time become a sort of unknown. We do not come naturally by a knowledge of industrial technology any more.

The points Prof. Lux was making connected with my own perception that this unknown technological environment is — especially among educated people — a source of anxiety and undifferentiated fear. One of the professors at the conference remarked that though he had had a biology course years before, and now had therefore a vague idea of how a tree functioned, he had not the slightest idea of how the plastic water pitcher before him on the table had been made. What had been taken out of the natural world, what had been done to the natural world, in order to produce it? The plastic water pitcher suddenly seemed surrounded by a vague suspicion and doubt.

Ignorant intellectuals

And this phenomenon is a general one. The widespread hatred of technology among intellectuals is surely an unselective and therefore ignorant phenomenon. The assorted greeners and ecology types often strike me as resembling so many savages in the primeval jungle, their claims and assertions merely the latest rites designed to exorcise or propitiate evil spirits and demons. This reaction against technology has all the features of primitive religion — fear of the unknown, magical components, predictions of apocalypse, and so on.

The remedy, as urged by Professor Lux, has to be enlightenment. Some components of technology may be harmful, and require intelligent control; others certainly are benign. When the technological environment is known, it will cease to be feared. Just as our ancestors learned to organize and control the natural environment, so this new man-made environment must be organized and controlled.

Letters to the Editor

From an aborted child

Editor, The Record:

Many times I have begun to write my views regarding the burning issue of abortion and its legalization, but my notes never survived the waste basket next to my desk. Why... Well, how could I, a male, really get a message across to women on a subject that, to them, is of such a personal nature?

I had many things to say, anti-abortion, (some of them rather rough) but felt that the gentle sex would treat them with disdain since they came from the pen and a mere male.

I reached out for help and a friend, Annie C. Pineau of New York, responded and permitted me to use her words on the subject. I respectfully submit her excellent prose on the subject:

I am a child, but I am dead

My eyes will never see another human being, or glance at the stars. They will never gaze at the powerful waves of an ocean, or the golden glow of a sunset. They will never shed a tear, or twinkle in delight.

My ears will never hear the rustle of leaves in the wind, or the chirping of a birds. They will never hear someone call me by name or listen to words of love.

My mouth will never speak words of intelligence, compassion, or love. It will never taste the succulent foods of the earth, or enjoy the coolness of a sip of water. Its lips will never form a smile, or kiss a person as a sign of endearment.

My nose will never savor the fragrance of a flower, or grass newly mown. It will never sniff the aroma of perking coffee, or sizzling bacon.

My arms will never reach out to the warmth of another human being, or labor to build a better world. They will never hug the neck of my mother, or enfold an infant of my own.

My legs will never carry me across fields or mountains, or run to aid someone in distress. They will never walk in the fallen leaves of Autumn, or crunch the icy snow.

My mind will never probe the mysteries of life, or attempt to solve some of the ills that blight mankind. It will never experience the wonders of youth, or acquire the wisdom of age.

Yes, I am a child, but I am dead! You ask, "why?" I was aborted!

The two people who denied themselves nothing, deny me everything. If you ever meet them, please tell them for me — I wanted to live!

Calls for anti-abortion outcry

Editor, The Record:

Connecticut's new abortion law renews my faith in my fellow human beings and proves that there is, after all, some sanity left in this country.

The bill, signed by Governor Thomas J. Meskill, notes in its preamble that "the intent of the legislature is to protect and preserve human life from the moment of conception." It also provides for a maximum penalty of five years in prison for any person who performs or advises an illegal abortion.

In our state the Pennsylvania Abortion Law Commission has handed in its study to Gov. Milton J. Shapp. The commission has told the governor that our states' restrictive abortion law is forcing women into slavery. Regardless of a woman's personal circumstances, it is hard to believe that a woman would think of the nine months it takes to bring one of God's children into the world as a period of slavery.

Dr. Eugene F. Diamond of the Stritch School of Medicine observes: "It seems to me that there is a confusion involved here which results from the failure to distinguish between the unwanted child and the unwanted pregnancy." This certainly seems to be the case with this commission.

In this country most people of religious faith are either Christians or Jews. The doctrines of major influence upon our culture come from this Bible. This elaborate document embraces an estimated 6,000 years of experience. The Bible speaks both directly and indirectly on the question of abortion. Two examples are Exodus 21:22-25 and Luke: 41:44. Why have our clergymen not been more vocal in their opposition to abortion?

In the last few months a group of doctors and nurses have become very incensed over New York's law of abortion on demand. On May 13, Gov. Rockefeller vetoed the bill to protect innocent life which the N.Y. State Assembly and the N.Y. State Senate had voted to adopt. We in Pennsylvania don't have to wait until thousands of infants are murdered before we raise our voices to be heard. Now is the time, before it happens.

As chairman of the Monroe County MOTOREDE (Movement to Restore Decency) Committee, I would like to invite any organization, individual or group of interested individuals to view our half-hour filmstrip entitled License to Kill. My phone number is in the new telephone book.

Merry-go-round

Campaigning first class

WASHINGTON — President Nixon's political operators, as befitting politicians with a multimillion-dollar kitty, are campaigning in style.

They travel first class, stay at the most fashionable hotels, dine at the most elegant restaurants and smoke the finest cigars.

Their expense accounts for April and May show they spent $34,831 on commercial flights, $6,318 for chartered planes and another $3,714 for the use of government planes.

In New York City, of course, they stayed at the Waldorf-Astoria. The bill for only three visits was $2,985. Their favorite spot in Florida was the Boca Raton Club, a watering hole for millionaires.

Bills were also submitted from the Bay Hill Club and Lodge, Orlando, Fla.; Canyon Hotel, Palm Springs, Calif.; Century Plaza, Los Angeles; Del Webb Townhouse, Phoenix, Ariz.; and Four Ambassadors Hotel, Miami.

The President's fund raisers wined and dined prospective contributors at Washington's fanciest eateries. One luncheon tab at the Cramercy Inn came to $1,300. They also dined $983 worth of French cuisine prepared by the fashionable Aiglonne Perres.

And, on a trip to New Orleans, they feasted at La Ruche and charged the $245 check to the campaign.

White house parties

The cheapest place to entertain wealthy backers, apparently, is the White House. However, for their April 19 reception, the Republican Finance Committee fully reimbursed the White House guest fund with $159.

This wasn't the first time the President has used the White House to fatten the Republican campaign chest. On an earlier occasion, several Illinois millionaires were invited to the White House for dinner with the President. He made a few pleasant remarks, then discreetly disappeared while they had their arms twisted over after-dinner drinks and cigars.

The President's fund raisers, incidentally, collected over $10 million from unidentified contributors before a new law went into effect on April 7 requiring that all political donors be named.

Phony campaign committees were set up in Washington to receive the donations, and more than 200 bank accounts were opened to hold all the cash.

Meanwhile, the Democrats are strapped for cash. Senator Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., has gone $1 million in debt, and Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., has also spent more than he has managed to take in.

Democratic National Chairman Larry O'Brien, as a gesture to the bankrupt Democrats, is serving without a salary. His sacrifice is more apparent, however, than real.

Virtually all of his personal expenses are paid by the party. He is provided with a chauffeur-driven car; his rent at the plush Sheraton Park apartments is paid; and he also eats at the best restaurants in town — all courtesy of the Democratic National Committee.

Castro demands U.S. navy base

BERLIN (UPI)—Cuba and East Germany Wednesday demanded American surrender of the U.S. naval base at Guantanamo, Cuba, in a communique issued at the end of an eight-day visit to East Germany by Cuban Premier Fidel Castro.

Castro later Wednesday arrived in Prague for talks with Czechoslovak leaders. Czechoslovakia is Castro's final stopoff on a six-nation goodwill tour of Eastern Europe which also included Bulgaria, Romania, Hungary and Poland.

The Cuban leader visits Moscow next week. "The German Democratic Republic supports the demand of the Cuban people and their government for the unconditional surrender of the illegally occupied naval base on Cuban territory at Guantanamo," the communique issued in East Berlin said.

"It condemns emphatically the American policy of blockade against Socialist Cuba, as well as all acts of aggression and piracy against the Cuban people." Cuban and East German leaders agreed that U.S. imperialism was "the main enemy of the revolutionary world movement" and promised continued aid and support for the peoples of Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos.

They also backed the "antiimperialist, democratic program" of Chile and said they supported "the national measures taken by the government of Peru and the fight of the Panama people for complete sovereignty over entire territory."

Castro was welcomed in Prague by Premier Lubomir Strougal and Gustav Husak, general secretary of the Czechoslovak Communist party.

Five U.S. cancer specialists to study cure with Soviets

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Five U. S. cancer specialists will leave for the Soviet Union Saturday to plan the first collaborative research under the joint health agreement signed by the two nations at the Moscow summit.

They are: Dr. Charles Zubrod, scientific director for chemotherapy, and Stephen K. Carter, chief of the cancer therapy evaluation branch, both with the National Cancer Institute; Dr. Oleg Selawsky, chief of the NCI Veterans Administration medical oncology branch; Joseph H. Burchenal, vice president of Sloan-Kettering Institute for Cancer Research, and Dr. Louis Wasserman, chief of the Department of Hematology at Mount Sinai Hospital in New York.

Source cites office probably was bugged

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The men apprehended in Democratic national headquarters here Saturday may have been removing electronic "bugs" already used to eavesdrop, rather than installing new ones, it was reported Wednesday.

The report, published in the Washington Daily News, quoted "highly placed police sources" as saying there "was every indication the bugs found in the men's possession 'may have been there for some time.'"

Metropolitan Police Inspector Ernest J. Prete, who is coordinating investigation of the break-in at the plush Watergate Hotel, confirmed there was speculation that spying on the Democrats already had been carried out; but he said he could neither confirm nor deny that this was the case.

The incident touched off a spirited election-year spat between leaders of the two major parties, and prompted Democratic National Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien to file a $1 million civil suit against the Committee to Re-elect the President, the GOP group spearheading President Nixon's campaign.

Joanne Carson granted uncontested divorce

NEW YORK (UPI)—A weeping Joanne Carson Wednesday was granted an uncontested divorce from her husband Johnny Carson on grounds of cruel and inhuman treatment.

"I had a talk with my husband and he told me he no longer wanted to live with me and to cohabit with me and that he wanted a divorce," Mrs. Carson told the court when asked why she sought the decree.

Wearing a black sleeveless dress with a scoop neck, Mrs. Carson was questioned by State Supreme Court Justice Samuel M. Gold. When she continued to sob Gold said, "Try to compose yourself. I know this is a trying experience for you but it is not unique."

She said that two days after Carson told her he wanted the divorce, he changed the locks on their New York City apartment although she had done nothing to provoke the action.

She also softly responded "yes" and then burst into tears when asked, "Have you been a good wife to him?"

The divorce incorporated a March 19, 1971, agreement providing her with support and a property settlement.

Boyle sentencing delayed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Federal Judge Charles R. Richey Wednesday postponed sentencing of United Mine Workers President W.A. "Tony" Boyle on 13 counts of illegally diverting union money to political candidates until next Tuesday.

Richey postponed sentencing at the request of Boyle's attorney, Plato Cacheris. Cacheris said Boyle was unable to appear Wednesday as scheduled because of a back disorder that put him in the hospital.

Cacheris produced a letter for the court from Boyle's physician, Dr. Milton Gusack, saying the 67-year-old union leader was "unable to ambulate at all."

Boyle faces a maximum of up to $120,000 in fines and 32 years in prison on charges of funneling $49,250 to various candidates from union funds in violation of the Corrupt Practices Act and the Landrum - Griffin Act.

cal material, drugs and possibly the joint development of new medical scientific equipment.

Dr. Edward E. David Jr., director of the White House Office of Science and Technology, will head a delegation leaving for Moscow July 2 to begin formal implementation of the Moscow summit agreement on science and technology.

David will be accompanied by Drs. James B. Fisk, president of Bell Laboratories, and Eugene Fubini, former vice president of IBM, and a group of government specialists. They will spend six days in Moscow.

Murder charge dismissal asked

WASHINGTON, Pa. (UPI)—A defense attorney has asked that murder charges against United Mine Worker (UMW) official Albert Pass be dismissed because he was brought here illegally from Kentucky in connection with the 1969 Yablonski killings.

Attorney Harry Gondelman of Pittsburgh, in motions filed Tuesday with the Washington County court, also challenged the county's jury selection system on grounds it "denied the defendant a jury of his peers and equal protection and due process."

Gondelman said Pass, a member of the UMW Executive Board, was arrested in Middleboro, Ky., on a federal charge of conspiracy.

The motions were similar to those filed last week by attorney David Rothman on behalf of William Prater, a UMW District 19 official also charged with murder in the Yablonski slayings.

Federal troops on call in Miami

WASHINGTON (UPI)—An undetermined number of federal troops will be assigned to the Miami area for use as required to avert violence at the Democratic and Republican National Conventions this summer, the Justice Department and the state of Florida announced Wednesday.

The Defense Department said the troops probably would be assigned to Homestead Air Force Base, 30 miles south of the Miami Beach convention site, as a backup for state and local law enforcement officers.

Florida Gov. Reubin Askew, who made the announcement with Attorney General Richard G. Kleindienst after both met with congressional leaders and party chairmen at the Capitol, already has ordered 4,000 Florida national guardsmen on summer training exercises in the Dade County area during both conventions.

"These conventions must be conducted in an atmosphere of respect for the constitutional rights and the public safety of all persons, including delegates and non-delegates," Kleindienst and Askew said.

The Pentagon said it would supply logistical support, such as radios and other equipment, in addition to the plan to "preposition a number of federal military forces in the Miami area at an appropriate time and in conjunction with other local, state and Department of Justice preparations."

The Justice Department sent assistant attorney general Harlington Wood Jr. to Miami Beach late last week to serve as chief coordinator of federal security moves. The department's Community Relations Service already is at work on the scene.

As far back as Nov. 9, the department's Law Enforcement Assistance Administration awarded $395,424 to Miami Beach to improve its police protection for the Democratic convention starting July 10, and later gave the neighboring city of Miami $95,000 for police training. Neither city has applied for additional funds.

Gardens all over travel pictures show

STROUDSBURG — Instead of familiar travelogue pictures, Mrs. Raymond Schweisguth Jr. showed slides of gardens, out of the way places and gardens in her talk on "Gardens of All Nations" at the June meeting of the Monroe County Garden Club at the YMCA.

Mixed with humor, she described gardens in Rome, Russia, Poland, farms in Pennsylvania, Cairo, the Coulee Dam and other sections of the world.

The arrangements by members also had an international theme. Mrs. Elwood Grant, for instance, had arranged a Scottish exhibit of heather, heath and lavender in a monkey puzzle tree pod which grows in the northern part of Scotland on an afternoon tea cloth embroidered by an aunt in Scotland as a wedding present in 1931.

Mrs. Robert Hartman had a Japanese arrangement with the figure of Buddha and a Thai arrangement with a Thai dancer. Other arrangements were brought by Mrs. Donald Walker, Miss Margaret Nillis, Miss Rose Nillis, Mrs. Sherman Teeler and Mrs. Harry R. Goldsmith.

The tea table arrangements featured laurel and peonies arranged by Mrs. Elwood Grant and Mrs. Eli R. Travis.

At the business meeting, plans were made for a picnic with the Conquerors Club as guests to be held July 20 at 6 p.m. at Dansberry Park. Members will bring a covered dish and prizes marked for men or women.

Two workshops, directed by Mrs. Bernard Peters will be held, one on June 26 at the home of Mrs. Robert Hartman, and the second on Aug. 21 at 10:30 a.m. at the home of Mrs. Jacob Hartman.

Mrs. William Savitz and Mrs. Clement Price, co-chairman of Sidewalk Days the first week in August asked members to bring magazines, plants and white elephants for sale.

It was announced that the Stroud Community Women's Club has become a co-sponsor in the Green Belt Project at Laurel Manor.

Mrs. Carl Denz was chairman of the hospitality committee which included Mrs. William Dievler, Mrs. Clement Price, Mrs. William Savitz and Mrs. Robert Gaunt.

Just Between Us—

By Bobby Westbrook

It must be rare enough to have a husband and wife celebrating the 50th anniversary of their graduation from two different high schools but to have both of the banquets scheduled for the same night really is stretching coincidence.

However, Earl and Ada Fenner Robacker made both of them. They stopped in for the social hour preceding the banquet of the Stroudsburg High School Class of 1922 to greet her classmates and then hustled up to Newfoundland where Earl's class of 1922 from Greene Dreher was being honored and where Earl himself was the speaker.

nervous. "This is the first wedding for me," she confided. The pastor, who was ordained just last May, confessed "This is the first wedding for me, too." However, they both did very well.

And a first for me is having my daughter and the three grandchildren for a week for the first time in my new tree house. The weather, which was supposed to be conducive to breakfasts on the deck, long walks, and swimming, certainly hasn't helped.

There are times when it seems we might get wedged if we all took a deep breath at once.

Ann Landers

Remembers friends

Dear Ann Landers: I just came from the funeral of a good friend. He was only 56 at the peak of his career, a wonderful guy, beautiful family, the most attractive man in any group. There were many sad-eyed people at the service, saying very little to one another. But the unspoken message was clear: "What a tragedy that this productive, successful, delightful fellow was cut down in the prime of life."

On the way home I remembered another funeral — one I attended a few months ago. The man was 90. He had once been a prominent person in the community — useful, productive, successful and loved by all. He retired at about 75. His eyesight went bad and he developed crippling arthritis. By the time he was 80 he was confined to a wheelchair, almost blind, his memory was gone, most of his cronies had died and he was a lonely and sick old man — a pathetic figure who was a drain on his only daughter's energy and financial resources. The last 15 years of his life were downhill all the way.

Recalling the old man made me feel less sad about my 56-year-old friend. There is something to be said for leaving the stage amid applause and cheers. I hope I'm lucky enough to die with my boots on.

Kentucky Musings

Dear K.M.: Wouldn't it be wonderful if your old friend could have given his 15 years to your young friend? But life doesn't work that way and we must live out the years the good Lord gives us. Thanks for a provocative letter.

Dear Ann Landers: I am 33 years old, have been married for eight years and have two small children. My husband is 10 years my senior — a quiet man, a good provider who does not like people. Our social life consists of his brother and his wife and a cousin he was raised with. Occasionally he will let me invite a neighbor couple in, but not very often.

The problem is that I have signed up for a study group which meets at our church once a week from 8:00 till 10:00 p.m. My husband refused to join so I go with my sister-in-law. I've always known that I'm not very pretty. I'm presentable. Period. No man would look at me twice. My husband insists that every man in town wants me, including the study group leader who is our pastor.

When I come home from these study group meetings he gives me the third degree although he knows I went with my sister-in-law and came home with her. He also checks the speedometer on the car to make sure I didn't drive anywhere else. He is becoming increasingly suspicious for no reason.

I once read someplace that this is a sign of mental illness. Is it? If so, should I stop going to the study group to please him? Please advise me.

E.S.A.

Dear E.S.A.: The symptoms you describe sound as if your husband might be mentally ill. Urge him to go for an evaluation. In the meantime, if you give up the study group it will not help him, so continue and enjoy yourself.

Dear Ann Landers: I have four children under seven years of age. I seem to have enough laundry every day for at least one load — sometimes two. For some reason this bothers my husband. He says his mother used to wash once a week and she had five kids. I keep telling him I'd rather do one or two loads a day than kill myself on Mondays. What do you say, Ann?

Missouri Mule (His name for me).

Dear M.: If you want to wash every day what's it to him? I presume you aren't telling him how to run his work day and he should not be telling you how to run yours.

It's not always easy to recognize love, especially the first time around. Acquaint yourself with the guidelines. Read Ann Landers' booklet, "Love Or Sex And How To Tell The Difference." For a copy, mail 35 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to this newspaper.

HABITS: (Q.) I bite my nails something awful. To keep from doing it I put petroleum jelly on them. My boy friend quit me because my hands are messy and smell bad.

I also swallow my gum. My mother says if I don't stop it will ball up inside me and no telling what will happen.

Please help me break these awful habits.

Gummy and Greasy in Mississippi

(A.) A girl who really wants to break a bad habit can break it. I believe you do and can.

To help with your nails, get some of the new dark polish and apply it according to directions. It will look so great you won't want to put grease over it or bite it off either.

I don't think swallowed gum is likely to make you sick, but constant gum chewing is a messy habit. Just quit chewing it. Instead, use mouth spray regularly to keep your breath fresh.

BILL THRILL: (Q.) I work part time in a store and have been dating a boy I know there. He is just somebody to go with. But I am really crazy about his friend, who is named Bill and works at the same store.

I am planning to break up with the first boy. Should I tell him about Bill? How can I let Bill know I like him? And I am afraid he won't date me because I have been going with his friend. What about that?

17 in Maryland

(A.) When you break up with your present friend, tell him you are not interested in him any longer, which is the truth. Do not mention Bill.

Word will get around that you have broken up. That will be the message to Bill that he is free to date you if he wishes.

Be friendly with him, but not too obvious, and not too big a rush. If he does like you, he should respond.

Ugh!

Goldie's "daughter" is five weeks and just beginning to be weaned for adoption while the orphan will not be ready for life on her own for at least two more weeks.

Two other feline beauties at the Monroe County branch of the Pennsylvania SPCA are male sealpoint Siamese, about two years old, found at large in Stroudsburg.

There are also several stray dogs in the kennels: a three-year-old male German short-haired pointer from Mt. Bethel; black and tan male from Stroudsburg; female part Beagle, tan and white, from East Stroudsburg; and white female part Poodle about three years old, from Bangor.

Duke is a longhaired German Shepherd male, three years, black and tan.

Judy is a part Collie, spayed and housebroken, three years old.

There are two part Shepherd puppies, both females, eight weeks old; and eight Sheltie type pups, all tan and white, five females, three males, six weeks old. All puppies have been inoculated against canine distemper.

Six assorted kittens, eight weeks old, four females, two males, all colors, short-haired domestics, complete the list of 28 animals waiting for adoption. They may not be purchased, but those permitted to adopt them are required to give a reasonable donation to help cover the Society's costs.

All cats and dogs, males as well as females, must be neutered as soon as possible after adoption so they cannot reproduce and add to the already overwhelming overpopulation of animals crowding shelters all over the community.

The shelter is open from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. seven days a week, for adoption or reclaiming lost pets. Complaints of cruelty and neglect are investigated and corrected promptly. Call 421-6761.

Blue Ridge Quartet to be featured

Outdoor gospel concert scheduled

EAST STROUDSBURG — The Salvation Army and Cherry Valley Methodist Church will co-sponsor "Singing to God's Glory," a program of sacred music, at 8 p.m. Friday in the East Stroudsburg High School stadium.

The program, featuring four well-known gospel singing groups, is the first outdoor gospel concert in the area for many years.

Leading the program will be the Blue Ridge Quartet, backed up by the Mark IV, the Singing Sheltons and the Beakleyville Singers, a group of youngsters from East Stroudsburg.

In concert appearances that take the group a hundred thousand miles each year, the Blue Ridge Quartet carries entertainment in song wherever they go. In addition to personal appearances, over 311 dates in 36 states and Canada in 1971, including 51 state and county fairs, their unique blend of voices is heard on record albums, radio and television broadcasts, their own syndicated half-hour television show and on the "Buck Owens Show."

They are also heard daily on Radio Station WWVA. Other than singing their own songs, they were selected to do the back-up work on the songs performed by the great Red Foley, also performing their own song, "Oh Glory, Glory Hallelujah" in the 1970 Academy Award winning movie of the year.

Organized in 1946, the quartet has consistently been the pacesetter of professional quartets throughout the nation. The group's success is the result of constant effort to bring new ideas and new songs to gospel music, another factor is the ability to interpret the inspirational quality of their material, and their insistence on "good singing."

The Blue Ridge Quartet sound is moulded from the bass voice of Burl Strevel, who doubles as master of ceremonies, high tenor notes from Don Seabolt, Bill Crowe's mellow baritone, and the lead by LaVerne Tripp.

Heading up the planning committee for the concert is Major Rex Worthy of the Salvation Army and Rev. George Doll of the Cherry Valley Methodist Church.

The committee consists of Bud Creveling, chairman; Don Heller and Bob Gueis, finances; Ruth Heller and Shirley Counterman, tickets; John Dennis and Rick Rarick, advertising; Lucy Gueis and Allen Kresge, refreshments; Walter Bryfogle and Edward Einehammer, Jr., special events; and Carl Seal, Rinehammer and Charles Brink, program booklet.

Tickets for the event may be purchased at Pinebrook Junior College, Fetherman's Paints, Sleep's Music, Margaret's Bible Supply and Counterman's Drug Store.

Property tax can be cut without revenue loss

By GARY GROSSMAN
Pocono Record Reporter

STROUDSBURG — Property tax millage in Monroe County can be sliced in half — from 12 mills to six mills — without loss in revenue.

Today, the Monroe County Commissioners will be told this fact.

The reason: Land values in the county have increased 206 per cent since the last countywide property assessment in 1958.

County property taxes are figured on a $342,857,000 total value of land in the county. A year long re-evaluation of county land by Cole-Layer-Trumble turned up a $700 million price tag.

Property taxes for the county this year were based on a 12-mill levy against 35 per cent of the total value. The result is a return of about $1.4 million in property taxes.

If the same 35 per cent ratio is kept, millage could be dropped to six, providing the county government keeps spending the same.

But the re-assessment of county property is going to mean radical changes in county and municipal tax structures. And one of the changes is going to be the ratio of assessment.

The 35 per cent of a property's value against which the 12 mills is applied is going to change. The figure is arbitrary. Chief Assessor for Monroe County William Fetherman has termed the 35 per cent figure deceptive.

He said the only possible reason for using the figure is to confuse the property owner when he tries to do some arithmetic on his taxes.

The ratio will be changed to either 50 per cent of the property's market value or to 25 per cent.

If the change goes to a 50 per cent ratio on the county level, millage could be dropped to four or five mills without a loss of revenue.

And if a 25 per cent ratio is selected, millage could be reduced to eight mills without cutting the county's $1.4 million harvest.

What this all means to property owners in Monroe County depends on individual circumstances and how much the value of their property was boosted between the last evaluation and the new one.

But if the property value was fairly assessed in the past and changes are non-existent under the new survey, the amount paid in taxes may drop.

A house worth $10,000 in 1972 would have cost the owner about $42 in county property taxes. If the house is still valued at $10,000 following the survey, the changes in ratio and millage would reduce taxes.

If the ratio is set at 50 per cent and millage goes to four or five mills, the property owner would pay $25 in county real estate taxes.

And if it is changed to a 25 per cent ratio and eight mills, he would pay a $20 tax.

Any re-assessment upwards on the value of the person's home would change the picture. And with a 206 per cent increase in valuation county-wide, chances are many homeowners will be finding out their home is now worth more.

And the tax assessors will soon know how much more.

Whatever the upshot of the $228,000 survey completed by Cole-Layer-Trumble, changes are certain. If millage is not dropped in the county and by municipalities, the effect will be a tremendous increase in taxation.

The extent and type of change in every taxing district will determine whether taxpayers catch a break or get burned by property taxes.

Monroe County Register and Recorder Kathryn Bush, with the aid of Tony Mowab, lottery drawing master of ceremonies, directs the placement of numbers prior to the spinning of the wheel on her right to choose one of the numbers in Wednesday's drawing at Mt. Airy Lodge.

First time for Poconos

Lottery drawn at Mt. Airy

SWITZWATER — The 16th weekly drawing of the Pennsylvania lottery got underway at 10:35 a.m. Wednesday at Mt. Airy Lodge with a minimum of fanfare and a lot of water.

Originally scheduled to be held at Mt. Airy Lodge's outdoor pool, the rain forced the extravaganza inside to the lodge's new convention hall. Just how new was telling as rain cascaded from the edges of the tall ceiling onto the hall's concrete floor with slightly less than a roar.

With the drawing scheduled to begin at 10:30 sharp, the crowd was estimated by noteables at slightly more than 100 persons, some of whom braved gusting winds and driving rains on Interstate 80 to attend the semi-historic event in the Poconos.

By the end of the drawing, the crowd had swelled to, an estimated 200 persons, many of whom were guests at the lodge looking for something to do.

Resting beneath the ceiling of the awesomely huge convention hall, the lottery commission's trailer looked almost gaudy as Tony Mowab, master of ceremonies, tried to warm up the sparse crowd with jokes and smiles.

The stage of the trailer was empty looking without the long-since-gone dancing girls who were shelved at the insistence of economy minded legislators.

The stage however, still was graced by the presence of two lonesome young ladies in miniskirts from the Lottery Commission Office.

With his voice bouncing off the convention hall walls, Mowab introduced a bevy of dignitaries who were on hand for the occasion. Among them were State Sens. Frederick Hobbs and Frank Mazzei, State Rep. Russell Kowalshyn, Monroe County Commissioners William F. Quinn and Arlington Martin, and Monroe County Register and Recorder Kathryn Bush.

Also on hand was Henry Kaplan, executive director of the lottery commission.

Among those participating in the picking of the lottery number by spinning the wheel were Hobbs, Kowalshyn and Mazzei (who is called the founder of the Pennsylvania Lottery), a honeymoon couple staying at the lodge, Jeff Smith, 10-year-old Bangor R.D. 1 resident, and Miss Bush.

When this week's lottery number was chosen, none of the estimated 200 in attendance made claim to the 1,270 cash prizes which are available for every million tickets sold.

According to informed sources, the Lottery Commission has chosen to return to the Poconos for another drawing in the fall. The exact date and location of the event will be announced later.

Middle school bids opened

STROUDSBURG — The Stroudsburg School Authority opened bids for the district's proposed middle school Wednesday night.

If contracts on all low base bids were awarded, the school would wear a $4.2 million tag for construction costs.

In the case of general contracting bids, however, companies could offer up to 15 alternates, which would vary that price if directors chose any of them.

Bids were referred to RKR Associates, architects for the school. Authority Chairman William Wells said awards may be made next week, as well as a tentative bond issue set.

Using general contracting base bids, Vito Construction Co. of Stroudsburg came in lowest at $2,238,000, nudging out Boyd H. Kline and Associates, Bloomsburg, by $1,000.

Kline's base bid was followed by nine other general contractors: The Sutter Corp., Nescopeck, N.Y., $2,251,900; William H. Lane Inc., Binghamton, N.Y., $2,260,600; Edinger Construction Co., Stroudsburg, $2,295,000; Phillipsburg Bridge and Construction, Phillipsburg, N.J., $2,298,000.

And, S.G. Mastriani Co., Scranton, $2,339,000; Raymond and Son Contracting, Dunmore, $2,344,000; S.H. Ewert Co., Bloomsburg, $2,347,000; Edward L. Nezelak Inc., Johnson City, N.Y., $2,407,800; and Avella Construction Co., Endicott, N.Y., $2,410,500.

Eight companies bid on plumbing contracts, with the lowest base offer owned by H.L. Cleveland Co., East Stroudsburg, at $269,000. Second was Air Engineers, Whitehall, at $303,935.

Joseph Wright Co., Wilkes-Barre, came in lowest on the heating and air conditioning base bid at $639,438, followed by Levi Case Co., Endwell, N.Y., at $663,000. Eight other firms bid.

H.N. Crowder Jr. Co., Allentown, submitted the lowest base bid for electrical construction at $879,847, with second going to Murray Electric Co. Inc., Bangor, at $695,460. Three other companies bid.

Own the lowest base bid for food services was Devin Products Inc., Trenton, N.Y., at $261,630, followed by Herre Brothers Inc., Harrisburg, at $271,300 and six other companies.

The six other companies bidding for plumbing awards were J & K Plumbing and Heating Co., Binghamton, N.Y., $315,000; Punari and Brogna, Allentown, $324,760; H.C. Archibald Co., Stroudsburg, $339,700; Robert J. Byer and Son Co., Scranton, $345,786; Joseph Wright Co., Wilkes-Barre, $348,747; Allen Mechanical Co., Emmaus, $376,470.

Other heating and air conditioning bidders included H.C. Archibald Co., Stroudsburg, $660,700; J & K Plumbing and Heating Co., Binghamton, N.Y., $679,000; B.O. Daubert Inc., Lewisburg, $684,945; Air Engineers, Whitehall, $692,000.

And, H.L. Cleveland Co., East Stroudsburg, $698,000; C.C. Kottcamp, York, $714,440; American Sanitary Sales and Service, Willow Grove, $720,000; Tri-City Plumbing and Heating Co., Phillipsburg, N.J., $744,600.

Electrical construction bidders also included Easton Electro Construction, Wind Gap, $696,123; Nordling-Dean Electric Co., Easton, $712,760; Luna Electric Co., White Plains, N.Y., $847,000.

Other food service bidders were Singer Equipment Co., Wyomissing, $272,400; Ace Hotel and Bar Supply, Allentown, $273,295; Rex Craft Associates Inc., Avoca, $275,617; Essbar Equipment Co., Wilmington, Del., $277,743; Foremost-McKesson Systems Division, Bala Cynwyd, $311,692.

Administrative Assistant John Kupiec remarked "the obstacles are great against the program." Kupiec stated this year there were 19 girls enrolled in the program, 12 of whom attended regularly.

The board decided to wait until their next meeting before definitely deciding on the program's fate.

Pregnancy program tabled

STROUDSBURG — The Stroudsburg School Board failed to decide Wednesday whether to continue a special program for pregnant girls.

Superintendent Samuel O. Wells favored discontinuing the program which provides instruction in home economics and child care outside school.

A new state law forbids asking girls to leave school because of pregnancy. Because of the law, Wells feels there is "no need to continue the program."

Unless a doctor certifies damage will result from a pregnant girl attending classes, she must be allowed to remain in school.

The present special program, although funded by the Stroudsburg School District, is attended by students throughout the county.

Sewer statute enforcers may aim suits at Monroe

By ANDREA B. STERN
Pocono Record Reporter

STROUDSBURG — All of the municipalities in Monroe County may be among the first slapped with lawsuits for failure to comply with state sewage regulations.

While it is known all of the county's 20 municipalities are among the 537 referred to the state for immediate legal action, it is still uncertain which will receive priority.

Noting the state intends "to undertake an active litigation program through the courts to compel compliance," Stanley Wolfe, director of the Anti-Pollution Strike Force in Harrisburg, declined to elaborate on Monroe County's status.

"It would be unethical to disclose this before we file and, although it has been decided, we cannot say in what manner it will be done," Wolfe contended Wednesday.

However, he did disclose the state's first complaints will be filed by the end of July.

With Monroe County having accepted the option of producing an official sewage plan for all of its municipalities to comply with state regulations — in effect since 1968 — and now actively working toward this end, Wolfe was asked whether any special consideration might be given.

"We've heard that for a long time," he returned. "Everybody's promised that and this is without prejudice to Monroe or Pike counties. I haven't seen the revised list of select cases yet but we hope these complaints we'll file will be enough to wake up every municipality in isolated parts of Pennsylvania."

According to the Pennsylvania Sewage Facilities Act of 1966, all of the Commonwealth's municipalities are required to have adopted and state-approved official sewage plans.

These plans list timing schedules, proposed financing and other specifics for the construction of sewerage systems and, by their approval of the plans, the municipalities are bound to adhere to them.

Later that year, Monroe County assumed the responsibility of preparing a country-wide official plan on behalf of its municipalities — an option preferred by the state and government funding agencies. Pike County, however, refused to do this and, to date, there are still no official plans for both counties and their municipalities.

New revisions to the 1966 act which became effective in mid-May now threaten to halt construction in all new subdivisions with less than one-acre lots in the counties because of the absence of such plans.

There are currently no regulations preventing planning commission approval of these subdivisions or restraints that would halt the developers from selling less than one-acre lots providing the consumers are informed they cannot build pending state approval of an official plan.

But these loopholes may soon be closed, according to Douglas Blazey, Strike Force attorney in Philadelphia.

"We are getting ourselves together and beginning to study this question to see what remedial steps might be necessary," he revealed.

In addition, the Pennsylvania Land Sales Act, now awaiting state Congressional approval, would prevent developers from selling lots under one acre in size in all municipalities that do not have approved official plans.

In its present form, the bill would further require "ample" assurances that a municipality has the financial resources to carry through with the sewerage implementation outlined in its official plan before it would receive state approval, according to Blazey.

He noted the act is aimed at preventing consumers from purchasing a lot and then finding themselves in the dilemma of not being able to build upon it.

Officials seek compliance with required sewer plan

STROUDSBURG — A "three-pronged approach" to tackle the state required preparation of an official sewage plan emerged out of a special work session held by county planners Tuesday evening.

The three-hour-long meeting, attended by nine Monroe County Planning and Zoning Commission officials, had been called to discuss compliance with new state sewage revisions that will halt specified development locally pending the development of an official plan.

The first aspect of the "three-pronged approach," according to Commission Chairman John Bitzer, is to complete the Weston sewage study for the western portion of the county so that it will qualify as an official plan for those municipalities covered in it.

While Bitzer noted the commission "will be taking some specific steps" toward this end, he declined to elaborate further.

"The second aspect will be to seek definite criteria from the DER (state Department of Environmental Resources which must approve these plans) to see what must be contained in an official plan — be it the Weston plan or plans for other parts of the county," he said.

"In other words we want specific information as to exactly what is to be contained in these plans so they can be prepared properly."

And last, Bitzer added, the commission will investigate hiring a consulting firm to unite the Weston report and the Tocks Island Region Environmental Study (TIRES) so they will together serve as a county-wide official sewage plan.

Asked how long the plan's development might take, he replied, "The Weston study could be completed in a relatively short time — a couple of months perhaps. As far as the other parts of the county (those in the TIRES report for the eastern portion), that will take a little bit longer."

Meanwhile, until the commission develops and receives approval for an official plan, it intends to approve those subdivisions that do not meet state standards as long as they comply with the county's Subdivision Regulations, according to Bitzer.

The state began requiring official sewage plans for all municipalities back in 1966 when the Pennsylvania Sewage Facilities Act was passed.

D.A. wins seventh

case in row

STROUDSBURG — Monroe County District Attorney James F. Marsh won his seventh straight conviction Wednesday in the case of Samuel Tucker, of Stroudsburg, charged with fornication and bastardy.

A charge of statutory rape was dropped against Tucker by the jury. So far in the June term of criminal court, Marsh has been able to convict everyone he prosecuted on one of the charges handed down by the Grand Jury.

Sentence in the Tucker case was deferred pending a presentence investigation.

McDade supports Tocks decision

OTTAWA NEWS SERVICE

Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Rep. Joseph M. McDade, R-10, has applauded the decision by a House Appropriations Subcommittee to stall all funding for Tocks Island Dam construction and use the money for land acquisition.

The Scranton Congressman said during a floor debate over Tocks that he would now expect the Corps of Engineers to proceed with the House funds to rapidly acquire new lands, taking into account hardship cases "which should be attended to immediately."

The decision last week by the Public Works Appropriation Subcommittee would transfer as much as $7 million in construction dollars into a land acquisition fund, making available for the coming year $14.8 million to buy new land.

"For 10 years, the work of preparation for the construction of Tocks Island Dam has progressed slowly, and the acquisition of land for the project has progressed most slowly," McDade told the House.

"These delays in acquisition have visited great hardships upon the residents of the area of the planned water impoundment. These are people who will be 'forced to move, who obviously cannot sell their land under these circumstances, and who have yet to have their land purchased by the Corps of Engineers," he noted.

McDade added that some serious questions have been raised concerning "the wisdom of constructing the dam." In view of the "economic and ecological questions which have been raised, the committee has wisely directed that the full $14.8 million be used" in other ways.

The Congressman also commended the Corps for "very prudently" holding off past construction projects for the dam, even though Congress had appropriated $1,650,000 for construction funds.

McDade, who until Pennsylvania's recent reapportionment, was not directly concerned with the Tocks Island situation, has lately become increasingly involved in its future.

At present, McDade views the dam construction with coolness. Its future, he has said, depends on the willingness of the surrounding states, including Pennsylvania, to commit their financial resources to construction.

The four-term Congressman has said he would personally veto all appropriations for dam construction until the states commit themselves to protect the reservoir and provide the necessary related facilities such as sewage treatment and adequate highways.

McDade observed that should the states continue to display reservations about Tocks, a new act of congress will not be necessary to nullify the project.

Truck overturns

STROUDSBURG — A tractor-trailer overturned early Wednesday morning when it failed to negotiate a curve at the intersection of Routes 209 and 115.

The driver, Donald W. Roberts, 22, of Philadelphia, was attempting to navigate a curve on Rt. 115 South when the accident occurred.

The rig, which was carrying empty soft-drink bottles, sustained $2,000 damage, but there were no injuries.

Rains return to Pocono; practice time running out

By CHUCK FIERSON
Record Sports Editor

LONG POND — Pocono International Raceway's frequent but unwelcome visitor returned Wednesday and drivers and mechanics were getting worried it may stay around.

For the third time in four days the track was shut down by heavy rains and winds. Since the raceway officially opened last Saturday, drivers have had only about 14 hours of practice time.

To date, only 29 cars have made their appearance on the two-and-one-half mile tri-oval. Four cars came out Saturday afternoon and they were among the 29 who got in practice Tuesday.

With only two more days of practice scheduled before Saturday and Sunday's qualification runs, time is running out. Most drivers and mechanics agree that they will be under a severe handicap for qualifications if they don't get in some practice.

The only real action came Tuesday when Bobby Unser, who holds qualifying records on all but two championship division tracks — Pocono and Ontario — set the pace when he drove his Olsonite Eagle to a new unofficial track record of 185.299 miles per hour.

Although speculation is that Saturday's pole speed will go at nearly 190 miles per hour, Unser is a little more conservative.

"I don't think there will be any 190 laps," he said. "In fact, I think we might get to only 186 or possibly 187."

Five other drivers, including official record-holder Mark Donohue, cracked the defending Schaefer 500 champion's official mark of 172.393 miles per hour set during last year's qualifications.

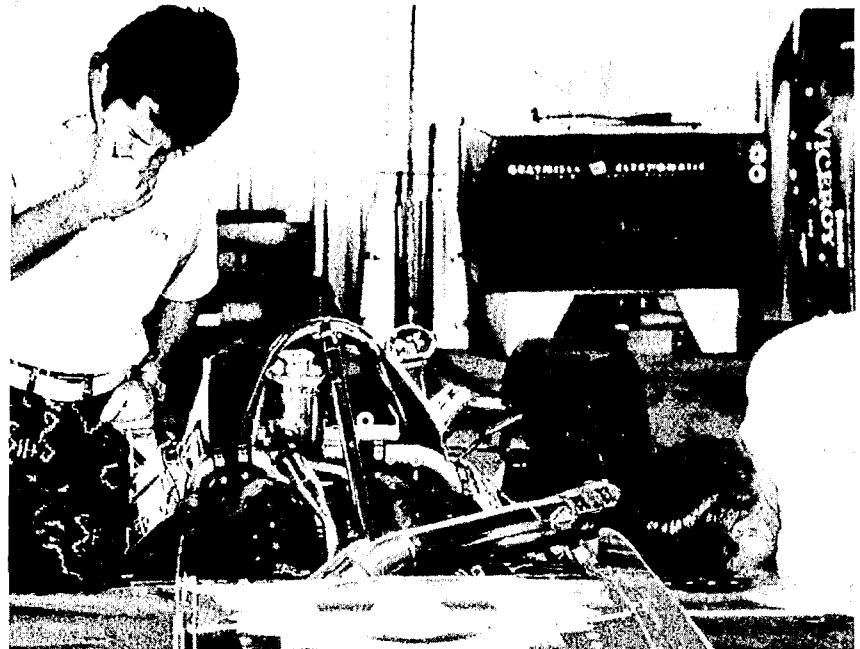

Gordon Johncock has the second best practice time with a 182.518 lap in his Gulf McLaren. Defending national champion Joe Leonard, who finished second behind Donohue in last year's race, turned a 180.6 in his Samsonite Special.

Nazareth's Mario Andretti hit 180.360 in his Viceroy Special while Donohue, driving the same car in which he won at Pocono last year, hit 180.

There has been only one incident during practice. Andretti brushed the outside wall coming out of the second turn shortly before closing time Tuesday.

"The car felt a little funny going through the first turn," he said.

Dodgers top Bucs by 5-3

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—A two-run pinch-single by Jim Lefebvre in the 10th inning broke a 3-3 tie and gave the Los Angeles Dodgers a 5-3 victory Wednesday night over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The victory went to Jim Brewer, 5-2, who pitched the last two innings in relief.

Frank Robinson and Wes Parker hit one out singles and moved up on a groundout before Lefebvre delivered the two out single to left off Dave Giusti, who worked in relief of Bob Moose. Moose was tagged with his third loss in eight decisions.

The Dodgers tied it in the seventh when Bill Russell singled, took second when Stargell fumbled the ball, moved to third on a groundout and scored when Buckner's grounder went through Pagan's legs at third.

Durocher reaffirms stand: current Cubs best team yet

CHICAGO (UPI)—For those who may have missed it the first time, Leo Durocher reiterated Wednesday that Chicago's 1972 Cubs are the best club he ever managed.

The 66-year-old Cubs skipper assessed the results of a seven-game winning streak and prepared to send his charges against the recently inpt San Francisco Giants for No. 3.

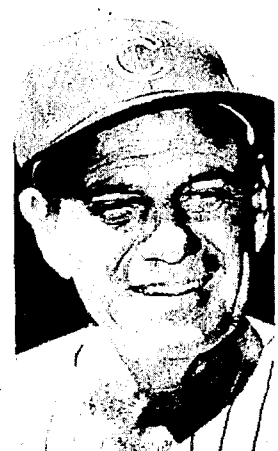

"I said it in spring training and I'll say it again. This is the best ball club I have ever managed," Durocher said.

"After last season John Holland (general manager) and I knew what we needed badly was speed and a bullpen. We lacked both and now we have both. That's what's making the big difference," he said.

Speed came to the Cubs in the pre-season acquisitions of centerfielder Rick Monday and rightfielder Jose Cardenal, Durocher said.

The bullpen became noteworthy with the addition of Tom Phoebus who is 2-2 with five saves, Jack Aker, now 2-0, and the relief staff got its newest shot in the arm with the arrival last week of Rick Reuschel, a 6-foot, 4-inch, 235-pound rightlander.

Reuschel was purchased from the Wichita Aeros, where he owned the best pitching record in the American Association. The big rookie from Camp Point, Ill., had 9-2 won-loss record, 78 strikeouts and an earned run average of 1.32.

Reuschel was awarded Tuesday's 15-8 victory over the Giants after he worked six innings on a yield of two runs and five hits. He did his bit at the plate also, belting a single and a double for one RBI in three trips.

Individual batting averages have climbed rapidly during the Cub surge. Ron Santo, for instance, has hit .500 during the streak even though he has been dropped in seventh place in the batting order.

"Ron's a pretty proud man and he may not relish being that far down," Durocher said. "But with guys like Billy Williams, Cardenal and Jim Hickman ahead of him Ron's getting a chance to drive in some runners."

Fosse, Nettles back Perry as Tribe gains 4-2 victory

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (UPI)—Ray Fosse and Graig Nettles hit homers to back the eight-hit pitching of Gaylord Perry Wednesday night and power the Cleveland Indians to a 4-2 victory over the Minnesota Twins.

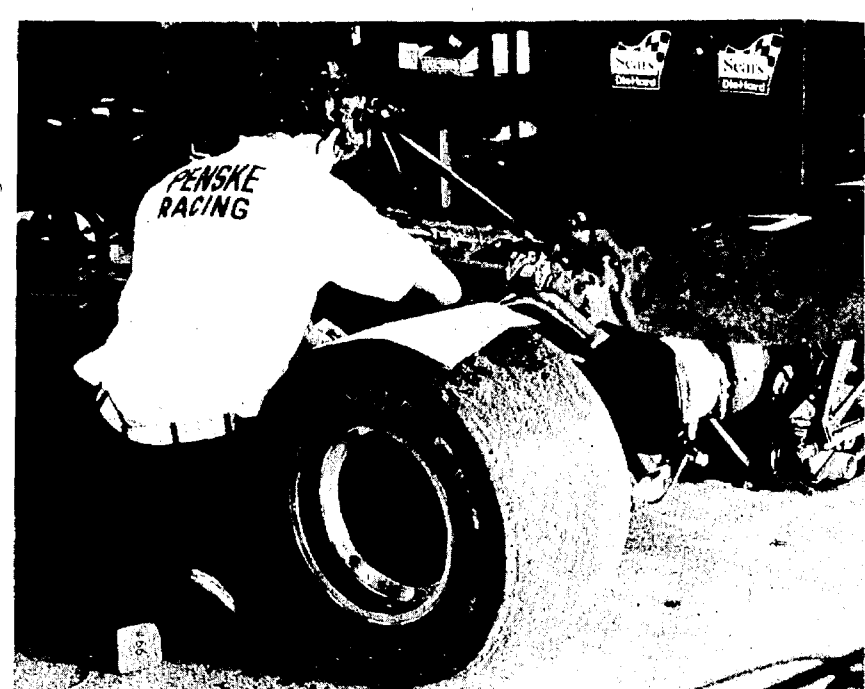

Perry boosted his record to 11-6 as he snapped a personal two game losing streak.

Fosse opened the Cleveland second with a 394-foot home run over the right centerfield fence to give the Indians a 1-0 lead. Frank Duffy followed with a triple to leftfield and later scored on Del Unser's sacrifice fly to increase the Indians' lead to 2-0.

Perry wild pitched Minnesota's Eric Soderholm home from third in the second inning for the Twins' first run. Soderholm had doubled and moved to third on an infield out.

The Indians increased their lead to 4-1 in the eighth when Nettles hit a 367-foot home run with Chris Chambliss, who walked, on base.

Perry got out of a jam in the fifth inning. Bert Blyleven and

Ryan's ninth inning double gives Philadelphia 9-7 win

ATLANTA (UPI)—Catcher Mike Ryan, batting for the first time in the game, hit a two-run double in the ninth inning Wednesday night to give the Philadelphia Phillies a 9-7 victory over the Atlanta Braves.

Loser Cecil Upshaw (1-2), who worked the last 2-3 innings, loaded the bases with three straight walks before Ryan came up to bat with two outs and slashed a hit down the left field line that scored Greg Luzinski and Willie Montanez with the runs that broke a 7-7 tie.

decisions by blanking the Braves over the last 3-2-3 innings.

The game was a free-swinging contest with the Phillies tying it in the seventh when pinch batter Roger Freed led off with his third homer.

The Braves moved into a 7-6 lead in the bottom of the sixth when Marty Perez scored on an error by Oscar Gamble and Ralph Garr singled home Felix Millan, who got four straight hits and scored four runs in the game.

The Phillies had gone ahead 6-5 in the top of the sixth with the help of two errors by Hank Aaron in rightfield while the Braves had led 5-4 in the bottom of the fifth.

Agee ends slump as Mets cop win

HOUSTON (UPI)—Tommy Agee broke an 0-for-20 slump with an eighth inning double and scored the winning run on an error by Tommy Helms to lead the New York Mets to a 5-4 victory over the Houston Astros Wednesday night.

With the score tied 3-3, Agee hit a line drive down the third base line with one out in the eighth. Ken Boswell singled to center, but Houston's Cesar Cedeno deceived Agee into thinking he would catch the ball and Agee had to hold up at third.

Dave Marshall hit an inning-ending double play grounder to Helms at second, but Helms fumbled the ball and Agee scored, leaving runners on first and second. John Milner made it 5-3 by singling to right to score Boswell.

Opening lead — king of hearts.

To defend well you must be able to visualize the unseen hands at the table. This is not really as difficult as it sounds, if you make use of the available clues.

Consider this hand, which is highly instructive. Let's say you're West, defending against three clubs, and lead the king of hearts. Partner plays the encouraging eight, in effect asking you to continue the suit.

If you are by nature inclined to play quickly, you continue with the ace and another heart, which declarer ruffs.

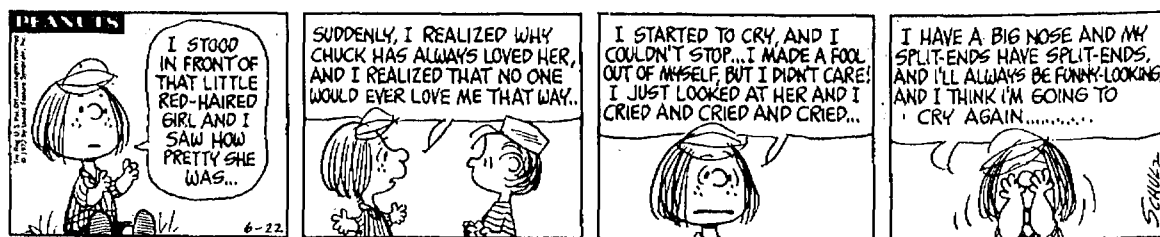

South then draws three rounds of trumps and winds up making three or four, depending on how the play proceeds.

But if you play more thoughtfully, you beat the contract. You don't continue with the ace of hearts at trick two, but instead lead the ace and another spade. East ruffs, returns a heart to the ace, and gets another spade ruff to put South down one.

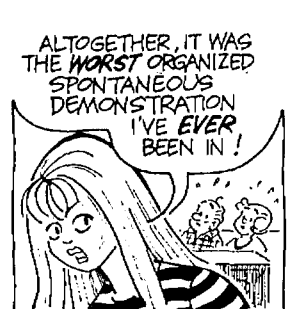

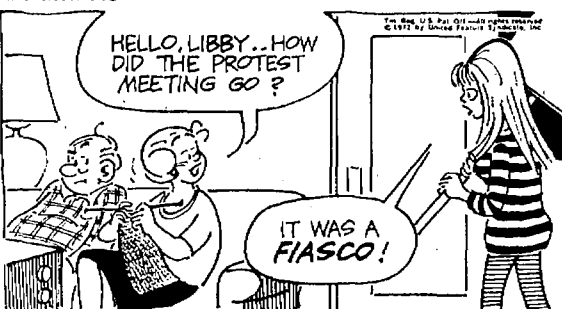

Perhaps you think this sequence of plays is easier to find on paper than at the bridge table, but actually it is not hard to figure out even if you don't see all the cards. You're expected to know as soon as dummy comes down that partner has a singleton spade, and once you reach that conclusion it is not difficult to find the right defense.

The big clue comes from the bidding. You must assume that if South had four spades and four clubs he would have followed the standard practice of opening the bidding with a club, not a spade.

The fact that he elected to bid a spade strongly indicates he has five spades, and this in turn marks East with a singleton. A shift to the ace of spades at trick two is consequently not as ingenious as it appears to be.

New York's Voice of Broadway

NEW YORK — Ali MacGraw and Bob Evans aren't fighting the rumors. Bob Hope's home hamlet of Eltham, England, is ready to open its new cinema named for its native Bob. Pete Sellers' new kick is organic grub. Started his new film with orders to the production chief for "nothing but natural foods". Dionne Warwick's husband, Bill Elliott, will be more famous than Dionne next year this time: he's star of the new series "Bridget Loves Bernie". Lee Remick's coaxing, the local Yankees in London to vote for McGovern. Millionheir Mildred Altman's back in St. Clare's Hospital for major surgery.

The gay movement's splitting into ethnic groups. Old heavyweight champ Maxie Rosenbloom was slapped into a coast sanitarium. One of the biggest New York utilities has its own AA chapters. Truman Capote was reported by the bartender at Southampton's Exit spot as a dandy tipper: parked his hat and bumbershoot and gave the mixer a $5 thank-you. Joe Namath's gal, Susie Stone, tipped her hairdresser at Michel Kazan's $20. Skidding Hollywood actor (once wed to a superstar) arrived at the Exit considerably into the mall — in bare muddy feet, droopy Bermudas, a raffish see-through shirt and was requested to scram. The girl with him tried to sing off-color and offkey.

Bill Saroyan's mod-daughter Lucy (with Detroit's Danny Marinet) thrilled at the old classical jazz in Jimmy Weston's. Henry Ford makes cars and Peter Revson drives the fastest at Indianapolis etc., but they only just met in adjoining chairs at the Pierre barbershop. Nail-sculptor Adele introduced them. Cafe owners say the summer is kiboshing Saturday trade, but Unicorn owner Tony Berns claims he's shutting that day simply to get to his Southampton golf lesson at 6. Nice to be rich.

New lad testing at Universal has a campy old movie nickname: Cliff Hanger. The St. Regis Roof starts its great summer of the Big Bands shortly and, for the overflow, Hazel Scott will tinkle a Steinway in the adjoining Penthouse for a month. Johnny Mercer and his Ginger are doing the Italian tourist bit, best in Europe. Several top hotel and resort operators are quietly targeting early 1974 for casino gambling here. London gambling joints already are incorporating in New York State. The Curzon Club did it to protect its longrun London waging title.

David Wayne ducked out of the rayne on W. 52nd St. and into a dry martini at the Ground Floor. Yvonne Elliman quit "Superstar" and refuses other legit-theater work. The unfrocked Mary Magdalene of the "J.C.S." musical said she dropped doing the same act every night. It was merely her first musical. In fact, "Jesus Christ Superstar" was her first recording. And after the hit LP and the musical, the appealing Hawaiian miss still must audition — in London — for the screen version.

Burt Reynolds, who stripped for the Cosmo centerfold, was tapped by Playboy — to model men's clothes. Comic Dave Barr wasn't permitted to plug his new record album from the Las Vegas Frontier stage while working there: it's "Will the Real Howard Hughes Please Stand Up," and of course Howard owns the gambling hell. Bob Cowsill of the Cowsills group named the latest Cowsill Nancy.

Sir Laurence Olivier traipses to London in his very own taxicab. It does not go unnoticed: it's a bright purple. Paris prayers are that the world market buys its latest style: the Choirboy Look. Benihana chain owner Rocky Aoki, who formed a London restaurant partnership with David Frost, is dealing for Tom Jones as his partner in Wales and Sophia Loren in Italy. It's Rocky's money.

Old flick cartoonist George Pal underwent surgery. Vet film publicist Joe Hyams (veep at Warners) married lovely Dolores DeMonte. Victor Borge's politely brief retort to anyone asking how to get into showbiz: "Buy a ticket." Sergio Mendes and his Brasil '77 group are off on a concert tour — to Brazil. MCA President Lew Wasserman's famous for lifting heavy checks for stars and politicians. Lew just had hernia surgery at Cedars of Lebanon. TV station twits the competitish with the slogan, "Our reruns are better than their reruns."

The staff of the new Rodos Restaurant in Queens calls the owner John. Easier than "Yes, Mr. Mirianthopoulos." The cast of "And They Put Handcuffs on Flowers" were all shaved baldy for the play. For offstage, producer Ted Menlen bought them all a round of wigs. Clint Eastwood's probably rich enough not to worry about resistance to the name of his new restaurant in Carmel: Fog's Breath Inn.

Marlon Brando's slice of "The Godfather" is estimated (present and future profits including TV) at about three mill. Muhammad Ali's pals suspect Joe Frazier's playing hard to fight — until he's out from under the corporate commitment to the Cloverly Corp., his businessmen partners. Xavier Cugat's having a hard-luck run: fell and smashed his face. Sad to hear of Chicago's Fritzel's closing. Now where do we get the wonderful onion rolls when we're in Chi? Eartha Kitt's spent a lifetime publicizing her kittenish style. So she'll star in London in "Bunny." Can she sing like a bunny?

Sy Oliver's great music seems young as today. June 23 he celebrates his 45th year in the music business. Started with the Zack White Band in '27. June 24, Sy joins the Parade of Big Bands at Roseland.

Public lands threatened

By GAIL NEVINS
STROUDSBURG — While you and I may have thought that public lands were public lands forever and ever, amen — we both have another think coming.

A bill pending in the House of Representatives would threaten vast areas of the nation's unspoiled public lands with mining, timbering and other development, and would distort their administration into a "bureaucrat's nightmare," the National Audubon Society states in its latest news release.

Targets of the conservationists' attack are the public lands sections of a package bill introduced by Representative Wayne N. Aspinall of Colorado and expected to be reported soon by the House Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs. The Colorado Congressman is Chairman of the Committee.

Although there is strong pressure in Congress from interested parties to pass the bill, the Audubon Society points out that the bill is being opposed by the Administration.

A letter from Rogers C. B. Morton, Secretary of the Interior, has warned that public lands provisions are not acceptable, are indeed a setback to the efforts of Congress and of the Administration to conserve the nation's natural resources, and should be dropped from the package bill. The bill's other key section contains general land-use planning legislation.

Federal public lands comprise nearly one-third of the entire country. They lie chiefly in the Western states and are managed by different Federal agencies, although the largest areas of public lands are under the administration of the Bureau of Land Management (451,000,000 acres) and the U. S. Forest Service (183,600,000 acres).

Audubon Executive Vice President Charles H. Callison charges that unless amended, the bill would jeopardize all of the great National Forests, many of the National Wildlife Refuges, several National Monuments, and some other units of the National Park System.

The threatened preserves are those originally set aside or "withdrawn," from the Public Domain by executive order. The Aspinall bill's most disputed provisions would end, after 10 years, the protection now guaranteed for those unique lands. Unless Congress then acted to safeguard each area, it could be opened for mining, timbering, resort and summer home development under a multiple-use planning system.

"Desperately needed are a rational set of environmental guidelines for public lands management and protection, and repeal of obsolete land statutes," Callison asserts.

Instead, H. R. 7211 erects an overlapping maze of departmental, inter-departmental, regional and local boards and advisory committees that would make chaos out of public lands administration. It would not touch the disgraceful 1872 mining law.

Teacher's notebook

By JUDITH GELBER

If our children could learn all there is to know about sex through milk, tidy lectures illustrated by nature slides, sex education in the schools would never have become a public issue. Also, we might not be swamped with "X"-rated movies, or with store bookshelves overflowing with "how-to" books on sex that cater to the great curiosity of so many young people.

We have to face the fact that there is nothing neat and orderly about sex, either in theory or in practice, because of that often-abused term, "human nature." We can't issue a list of instructions that begins with step one, as if we were guiding a student through the set rules of a game, or the building of a bird-cage. The great variety of human responses is too overwhelming.

In other words, human sexual relationships are far too complex to be put down in a simple set of biological facts. Indeed, establishing the basics of human reproduction in the mind of a child is only the beginning in a long — sometimes difficult — education in what it means to be and act like a man or a woman in relation to other men and women.

Sex education, therefore, must proceed from the uniquely human viewpoint, and that is what causes so much difficulty. There are no illegitimate births, marriages, pre-mature sexual activities, etc. among animals.

Put another way, human sex is hedged with social values, attitudes, goals, expectations, emotions and other psychological factors that place limitations on the spontaneous "expression" of a perfectly "natural" biological urge.

Young people (and adults), therefore, who preach that human sex should be regarded no differently from animal sex are, in my opinion merely using the concepts of natural and spontaneous behavior to excuse their own promiscuity.

The mating of animals has nothing to do with the meeting of a man and a woman, beyond certain essentials.

The reader will of course realize that I have imposed my own values on this subject. I grew up with the idea that human beings are different from other mammals in very significant ways, and that I should be embarrassed to claim that I cannot (or will not) act differently from the beasts of the field.

This poses yet another problem in sex education. It is obvious that the attitude with which the subject is taught are as important as the course content. I cannot insist that my values are right for everyone. Yet I would like my children to believe as I do. And this point, I think, is the "bone in the throat" for most parents.

Despite the obstacles, however, we must provide the kind of sex education in the public schools that will deal realistically with sex within the broader context of everyday life, and that will channel perfectly healthy curiosity away from the trash that is inundating our society.

Stars out on straw hat circuit

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — "Tis summer and show biz folk are heading for the hustings where the money is.

Increasingly motion picture and television stars are touring the straw hat circuit appearing in plays and musicals in small, medium and large cities across the country.

The increase in the number of fine local theaters in all parts of the nation combined with the production of fewer movies and a cutback in the number of television shows, have forced actors to go to the people.

Once the practice was called "working a stock company." But that's not really the case. Today stars hit the road with an established show, making two or three long stands before returning to Hollywood.

A typical case is Barbara Rush who has starred in dozens of movies. Even she has lost count of the number of television shows she's done. Barbara will star in "The Unsinkable Molly Brown" during July in Sullivan, Ill. Later she will play the lead in "Lysistrata" at the Ravinia Playhouse in Chicago.

"I toured two years ago in '40 Carets," Barbara said. "There is a desperate need for good theater away from New York and Los Angeles. And it is being provided. We sold out everywhere.

"It's more than the public's interest in seeing motion picture or television performers in person. You have to be in a good production."

"The audiences in the Midwest, for instance, are more enthusiastic than those on Broadway. I think the critics in New York dampen the attitude of theater-goers. They have the same effect that polls do on politics. Critics and polls can both be misleading."

Before heading out to Illinois, Barbara will play a guest role in the "Owen Marshall" series and star in "Moan of the Wolf," a television movie for ABC.

"Most Hollywood people are going on the road because they need the work," Barbara said. "Others get bored with doing the same old thing on television year after year. Many actors simply prefer live audiences."

"Another thing, the public can pay about the same price for a theater ticket and see a good play with a top cast as they would for a movie ticket for a so-so film."

SAPOLIN hydraposit[®] AUTOMATED PAINTING

WHAT IS SAPOLIN "HYDRAPOSIT"?

The amazing Sapolin HYDRAPOSIT automated painting system spreads paint so fast — so evenly — so smoothly — so solidly, that only a few hours are needed as compared with the days required by any other method. You get a quality job all the day. You get the equivalent of at least 2 coats of paint. Laboratory tests and on-the-house jobs show that one coat of SAPOLIN latex house paint deposited by "Hydraposit" is about 2 1/2 times as thick as a brush coat and nearly 5 times as thick as an ordinary spray coat.

HOW MUCH DOES IT COST?

During the "House Paint" sale a $180.00 job would include one coat of Sapolin exterior latex house paint and "Hydraposit" labor to apply on body of average wood house with sound paintable surface (2000 sq. ft.) trim work and special preparation extra. Sale price expires July 15, 1972. Save hundreds of dollars over convention painting methods!

Your Horoscope

Frances Drake

GEMINI

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)

Where the obvious means to progress are skimpy, YOU figure out preferable, more feasible ones. But have patience, be vigilant, precise. Watch trends.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus)

Be alert to new possibilities of making even more out of your talents and unusual ideas. Consult with those at the top.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini)

You may discern a hint of things to come where your personal ambitions are concerned. Accept advice and support from interested friends.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)

Stellar influences stimulate your ambition and spirit of enterprise; also bring tendencies toward stubbornness and chance-taking. Stress your conservative side.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo)

Certain situations may seem more complicated than they are; others appear less complex, but be careful here not to be heedless, caught off guard. Care in romance!

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo)

A favorable period for personal improvement, increasing knowledge, sharpening skills. Aim only for highest objectives. You can attain much now.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)

It may be a race to the finish line now, but stay in there trying, maneuvering (adroitly, but always with integrity); and, remember, "the do-er alone succeeds."

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)

Under day's potent influences, you should have a new incentive, seek new ways to improve, eliminate waste motion. Ambitious projects, well managed, should work out well.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius)

Jupiter auspicious. An excellent period for making business and financial gains. Your good judgment and excellent gift for organization pay off now.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn)

A lively outlook. There's room for advancement in several areas. If you have felt some restraint recently, you may step forward more freely now, but not recklessly, of course.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius)

Press forward where the time is ripe and you have properly planned your course. Routine could be brightened with an artist touch, finesse without ostentation.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces)

Even if day's hustle and bustle prove aggravating, you can keep your inner self serene and still achieve. Preserve dignity, good relations with associates and friends.

YOU BORN TODAY

are an extremely practical, conscientious and self-controlled individual. General speaking, you are one of our more serious-minded and solid citizens but, as a carryover from the now descending Gemini, the sobriety of your nature is lightened by flashes of a brilliant but dry wit and a happy disposition. In all your endeavors, you use striking methods and unique but completely feasible procedures. Like the Gemini, you have a gift for words and a talent for music which, properly developed, could lead to great success as a writer, composer, instrumentalist or journalist. The teater is also an excellent medium for you talents and, with your Cancer-endowed compassion for your fellowman, you would make an excellent physician, nurse or sociologist. Traits to curb: Obstinacy and jealousy, Birthdate of: Erich M. Ramarque and H. Rider Haggard, authors.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.
